

DJ Not Applicable is a DJ/Producer who plays funky, soulful, electro and hip hop influenced tracks.

I am DJ Not Applicable, a DJ/Producer from MA. My mixes consist of breakbeat, house and trance. I have to get a lot of old school tracks to get my voice into the void – the constant extrusion of music that hits the genres everyday. I DJ to allow my interaction with the world. I am an introvert and do not play in clubs anymore. I do not want to deal with politics and back fighting that comes with that whole aspect of DJing. I play on 5 radio stations live as well as having 2 weekly podcasts (one house, one breakbeat) and produce breakbeat tracks. This allows me to not only have complete creative control over my musical selection, but allows me to play all the time. I am constantly evolving with every show.

All my work is out there. All of it is free. I am not here to make money – I am here to create. My name “DJ Not Applicable” was chosen to illustrate that the DJ does not matter – it is the music that comes from the DJ’s sets/mixes/tracks that is important. I, as a music selector, attempt to deliver an experience which speaks from the heart of me. It is long said that the most important thing as a DJ is to play the right tracks. Unless you only play tracks you have produced can you make the argument that the DJ is the main focus of the experience.
